CIO MEAT MEN VOTE TO DEFY U.S., STAY OUT

STATE LIBRARY OF MASSACHUSETTS
JAN 28 1946
STATE HOUSE, BOSTON

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 (AP)—Lewis J. Clark, CIO Packinghouse Workers' Union president, announced the union's national wage policy committee voted "unanimously" today not to return to work when the government seizes struck packing plants at 12:01 a. m. tomorrow. (Other Details on Page 2)

CIO Packers Here Defy U.S.

Unanimously voting to remain on strike despite government seizure of John P. Squire Co. plant in Cambridge, Local No. 165, United Packing House Workers of America, CIO, today gave the first indications of the CIO's stand in the strike-bound packing plants of the nation.

AFL Men Go Back in Meat Truce

By Associated Press

The government will operate the nation's billion-dollar meat industry beginning at 12:01 a. m. tomorrow in an emergency move to restore meat to the nation's tables. But, as final arrangements for the takeover ordered by President Truman were being completed, there was no assurance CIO packinghouse workers, comprising 75 per cent of the 250,000 out in the strike-bound industry, would return to work.

AFL leaders last night ordered their 55,000 striking members to call off the walkout, stating the union "cannot and must not distrust" Mr. Truman.

CIO leaders, however, were non-committal of AFL action and said their decision would be announced only after two meetings today—one of 200 officers of union locals and one of rank and file members.

The AFL union declared what it termed "a temporary truce," which would last "at least until we know what the fact-finding commission (now holding public hearings in Chicago) will recommend." In Washington it was reported the finding would be made public in a week and might advise federally sponsored wage boosts.

Walkout of 750,000 CIO steel workers will force the layoff of 15,000 at the Ford Motor Co. tonight, the company reported, and it said 25,000 additional workers would be affected in a week.

The 65-day General Motors strike remained deadlocked on 30 per cent wage increase demands. The UAW-CIO continued wage negotiations with Chrysler and Ford yesterday.

A mediation meeting in New York in the strike of 200,000 CIO electrical workers against General Electric, Westinghouse and General Motors was recessed.

Negotiations collapsed at Columbus, O., last night in a threatened strike of 3500 CIO utility workers which would halt electric power for 2,500,000 Ohio residents.

A coastwise shipping tieup was declared imminent by the official newspaper of the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

GM Chief Warns Wage Hike Means Price Boost

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors testified today "if you want higher wages paid you are going to have to have higher prices."

Wilson, whose General Motors plant has been strike-bound for two months, appeared before the Senate labor committee. He opposed fact-finding, compulsory arbitration, or extension of the wartime presidential powers for government seizure and operation of industry during strikes.

Wilson said if the country was going to "hold the line on prices then we'll have to worry along with strikes and all take a big loss." He added:

"I think we're going to have some awful bad strikes before the men go back to work at the wages at which the men were working before."

Not only will their 1000 members stay out, a spokesman said, but the refrigeration men and firemen permitted to enter the plant will be pulled off the job as soon as the government takes over.

The decision to defy government seizure was made at a mass meeting of the strikers in Lusitania Hall, Cambridge st., at which they were told that the national CIO policy called for them to remain on strike. Chicago headquarters of the CIO ordered them to stay out until union demands for pay boosts are met, spokesmen declared.

Removal of the refrigeration men and firemen would result in spoilage of large quantities of meat, plant officials said.

In addition to the Squire plant, other Massachusetts packing houses due for seizure included the New England Dressed Meat & Wool Co., Somerville; H. L. Handy Co., Springfield, Armour & Co., Roxbury, and Chamberlain Co., Clinton st., Boston.

In another phase of the general strike picture here the General Electric Co., offered its first counter move when the management of the Lowell plant threw open its gates and invited employees to return to work.

Several hundred employees, engaged in manufacture of heating pads and members of the AFL International Ladies Garment Workers Union, however, continued to refuse to pass through the picket lines but scheduled a meeting for this afternoon to vote on the issue.

Employers spring a surprise on employees in two pending strikes. With the threat of a walkout of about 4000 truck driver members of the Chauffeurs' and Teamsters' International union (AFL) hanging over the conferences before the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, employers said any agreement reached must contain a "no work stoppage" clause.

HONORED DISCHARGE—The 1,500,000th Navy discharge will be presented to FC 2c Eugene Smith, of Watsonville, Cal., today at Camp Shoemaker, Cal. He will receive the certificate during a nationwide radio broadcast tonight.

UNO Rejects Russia's Protest in Iran Dispute

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP)—The United Nations Security Council formally agreed today to discuss the tense military-political situations in Iran, Greece and Indonesia at its next meeting. The council thus disregarded a request from Soviet Russia that it decline to take up the dispute over Iran. The next meeting will be held Monday.

The 11-member council, proceeding to put the new world peace organization in working order, took steps to get its military staff committee functioning. The council ordered military representatives of the principal powers to hold their first meeting here by Feb. 1, when work will be started on special agreements by which nations are to pledge land, sea and air forces to enforce council orders.

The action came on motion of the American delegate, Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., after British Foreign Sec. Bevin declared he was "so tired of these charges by the Soviet Union in private" (against Britain) that he was anxious for a full discussion at the earliest possible moment.

The action to take up the situations in Iran, Greece and Indonesia came two hours after Russia had registered categorical opposition to discussion of the Iran complaint that the Red army has been interfering in Iran's internal affairs.

The chief Soviet delegate, Vice-Commissar of Foreign Affairs Andrei Vishinsky, filed a letter with Council President N. J. O. Makin setting forth a five-point reply to the Iranian charge. He declared Iran's complaints were groundless and that the channels of direct negotiation between the two countries were open.

Vishinsky received assurances from the council president, however, the decision to discuss the Iranian case would not adversely affect Russia's argument that the situation is an internal one.

Makin said that the next meeting the Soviet Union could take whatever position it chose. The discussion presumably will be preliminary to a council decision whether to investigate formally the three complaints concerning Iran, Greece and Indonesia or take any other action on them.

The council adopted an Egyptian proposal that Iran, the Ukraine and Greece, which are not members, should be invited to the Monday session.

Bevin said "it would be a mistake to have any power, great or small, feel it cannot come to this council and states its case."

"On Greece," he continued, "I shall offer no objections to the fullest discussion. I would like the Iranian matter on the agenda."

In proposing all three cases be brought up at the next meeting, Stettinius declared "I want it clearly understood the United States believes any country in the United Nations which makes a complaint has a right to be heard at this table."

The government of the tiny republic of Lebanon said it had ordered its United Nations delegation to present to the council Lebanon's demand for immediate withdrawal of British and French troops from her soil.

Egypt, which has been demanding evacuation of British troops stationed there, was in the midst of a cabinet crisis with three ministers threatening to resign, asserting that Foreign Minister Abdel Hamid Badawin Pasha had declared he would not ask the UNO to intervene.

Lewis Rejoins AFL, Elected to Executive Board

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 25 (AP)—AFL President William Green today announced reaffiliation of John L. Lewis and his 500,000 United Mine Workers with the American Federation of Labor.

Lewis immediately was elected to the vacancy on the executive council created by withdrawal of Harvey W. Brown, machinists' president, whose 700,000 dropped out in October, 1943.

Green said Lewis would attend next week's sessions.

Return of the miners was significant, Green said, because of "the need for unity and solidarity."

"It might be interpreted as a move designed to place the house of labor in order. It will have a profound effect upon expansion and development of a united labor movement," he added.

"Doesn't one of you have to leave soon? We need someone else to talk about."

Announcement of their participation ended weeks of uncertainty during which only the United States, China and four members of the British Empire had participated in preparations for the trials, which may start in March.

All nine signatories to the surrender of Japan thus will take part in the trials of Tojo, his Pearl Harbor cabinet and other top flight Japanese, said Joseph B. Keenan, chief U. S. prosecutor.

Empire representatives are Great Britain, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

A radio from Moscow that Russia had named a judge and an associate prosecutor came as a surprise to Gen. MacArthur's headquarters. Keenan recently said Russia's continued silence "makes it look pretty certain Russia won't come in."

Russia named a major general to sit in judgment on the Japanese and a man described as director of judicial science to be an assistant prosecutor, but their names were garbled in the cable to Allied headquarters.

These Days Public Opinion

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

SOMEbody says or writes something, true or false, wise or stupid, which if often enough repeated becomes public opinion. Then the pollsters go from house to house and ask slanted questions and the so-called "public opinion" is proved by a poll.

This corruption of "public opinion" is causing widespread havoc by creating a climate of fatalism. Such an organization as the National Ass'n of Manufacturers, which used to be the spearhead of the fight for the retention of the capitalist system in the United States, has for several years employed a pollster to tell them which way the wind of public opinion will blow so that they will blow the same way, but weakly.

Now along comes the first authentic book on Spain to appear these many years.

It is "Warlike Mission in Spain," by Prof. Carlton Hayes, who was our ambassador to that country during the Roosevelt Administration.

It is interesting to study the facts as they passed over his desk in contrast to the "public opinion" which was manufactured in Moscow and New York.

Mr. Hayes set this as his goal:

"... I would show no partiality for or against any domestic party or faction—Nationalist, Monarchist, Republican, Socialist, Communist. I would consign the Spanish Civil War to history and leave the future of Spain to Spaniards."

But the little noisy ones had no desire to leave Spain to the Spaniards any more than they would leave the Argentine to the Argentines or China to the Chinese.

From the night saloons in New York, they would not only run the world but change every people, making them over into the image of a New York intellectual.

The problem that faced Carlton Hayes all the time that he was in Spain was to discover from his State Department whether he was there to help win the war by keeping Franco as neutral as possible, or was he there to shift with every shift of New York synthetic "public opinion."

He sometimes wondered, as is recounted in his book, whether these excitable persons in this big city were more interested in knocking the spots out of Franco or winning a war with a minimum loss of American lives.

Maybe the "public opinion" makers did not know themselves. They may have been making "public opinion" because they had nothing else to do with their time.

Another instance is this terrific attack on Gen. Morgan of the UNRRA. The night club opinion-makers were in a frenzy to get his scalp on the ground that he had uttered an anti-Semitic statement.

Then it turns out that the Jewish organizations on the spot came to his defense.

Also, the correspondents of leading New York newspapers, who happen to be Jews, produced objective reports from on the spot.

which were altogether different from the excitable and irritating "public opinion" let loose in New York.

I had never heard of Gen. Morgan before and did not know—and do not now—whether he is a decent man or a Nazi-minded ogre. But I do know that it is intellectually sound to distrust everything called "public opinion" that emanates from this jumpy and at times scurrious city. So I sat about waiting for some authentic and objective statement of the case. I have a feeling that Gen. Morgan will be exonerated.

Now we are going to have lots of "public opinion" about President Truman's message. It is a long, dull, ponderous document and gives the appearance of having been written that way so that no one will read it.

Maybe I do not know—that is one of the brilliant ideas of Sam Rosenman, because if the message and the budget are too long and involved to read, the people can be narcotized by synthetic "public opinion" and then the pollsters can get out a poll to prove that "public opinion" and everything will be fine until the next time.

We live from one "public opinion" to another.

Cabin Trysts Told As Sailor Sues Wife

Admitting she had had men friends while her husband was serving with the Navy in the Pacific, Mrs. Rita L. Joyce, 31, of New Haven today denied in Salem Probate Court she had improper relations with any of them.

She is seeking a divorce from Thomas J. Joyce of Shorey rd., Lynn on grounds of cruelty. Joyce has filed a cross action for divorce charging infidelity. Both ask custody of their 11-year-old daughter.

Joyce's complaint is being heard first, but Mrs. Joyce was the first witness and was put under cross-examination by her husband's lawyer.

She admitted she'd had lunch with a man called "Al" but denied ever being alone with him. She identified a snapshot of another man as having been a friend, but denied she had taken trips to New York to meet him.

A stack of 12 letters introduced as evidence by her from various men, she admitted. However, she denied she had received a greeting card signed, "Love, your Al."

Second witness for the husband was Mrs. Elsie Horton, 36, of Johnson st., Lynn, who testified she occupied an apartment with Mrs. Joyce for a year. She told the court they had many "double dates" together.

Mrs. Horton testified that last September she and Mrs. Joyce accompanied by a sailor, William M. Young, and a man called "Cappy" went on a trip to New Hampshire and stayed at overnight cabins. They met at the Lynn restaurant where Mrs. Joyce was a waitress and after the men got liquor the four started for New Hampshire, she said.

After going as far as Manchester, Mrs. Horton testified, they turned back and put up at the cabins. She told the court she occupied one cabin with Young, while Mrs. Joyce occupied the other with "Cappy." Each cabin, she said, had only one bed.

They arrived at 6 a. m., she said, and left at 3 p. m. Mrs. Horton also told the court in October she came home to the apartment about 2 a. m. and found a light in the back bedroom. She called to Mrs. Joyce, she testified, but got no answer and went into the room to turn out the light.

There, she said, she found "Cappy" and Mrs. Joyce completely disrobed and asleep. She said on several occasions she had seen "Cappy" and Mrs. Joyce enter the bedroom and close the door.

Young corroborated Mrs. Horton's testimony about the New Hampshire trip. He said he had slept with Mrs. Horton, but had no improper relations with her. He testified that as far as he knew, Mrs. Joyce had never had improper relations with "Cappy."

Mrs. Joyce previously admitted she had gone on "double-dates," but denied she had ever stopped at an overnight cabin.

"That's a lie," she answered. "I have never been in an overnight cabin in my life."

She also said "Cappy" was never at her home. She told the court she was head waitress at a Lynn restaurant, but at present is training a crew of waitresses in a New Haven branch of the cabin.

"Cappy" she identified as chef at the Lynn restaurant. She said she was friendly with him, but only "in a business way."

She made the trip to New Hampshire, she said, to visit her daughter who was in camp there.

Jail Breakers Back in Cells, Fear Long Terms

BARNSTABLE, Jan. 25—Three prisoners who slugged their way out of Barnstable County jail Wednesday were back again today, sulking in their cells and still puzzled over their single-handed capture by a 30-year-old discharged Navy veteran. The prisoners, Augustine Barbarosa, 34, Taunton; Herbert R. Boomhower, Jr., 19, Falmouth, and Gerald K. Ellis, 17, Hyannis, seemed regretful over their rash escape and worried over the possibility of long prison sentences, according to Sheriff Lauchlan M. Crocker.

Names of the two guards they slugged in their escape remained on the danger list today at Cape Cod Hospital in Hyannis.

Hospital attaches said the condition of Harold Jacobs had improved considerably since yesterday but that the other guard, Warren Ryder, still was in critical state.

At the jail doctors removed birdshot pellets from Barbarosa and Boomhower and said the wounds were not serious.

Both had been shot by Calvin Belden, Firehouse rd., a veteran of Navy action in both the Atlantic and Pacific, during his daring single-handed roundup of the three prisoners at Osterville.

A-Blood Donors Sought for Vet

An urgent appeal for donors with Type A blood was made today in behalf of Sidney Miller, 37, of Walnut st., Roxbury, veteran of 17 months in the Southwest Pacific, critically ill at Beth Israel Hospital with a disease contracted in service.

Any person with Type A blood is requested to contact the hospital at Beacon 4400.

Miller was stricken while serving with the Transportation Corps in New Guinea and after an operation at a Pacific base, was flown back to the United States in March last year.

In September he underwent two more operations to correct liver and kidney conditions. After 25 transfusions Miller has failed to rally.

Capt. Bell, Bride Divorce Suit On

Blonde, attractive Mrs. Ellen Joan Bell of Salisbury rd., Brookline, took the stand in Suffolk Probate Court today as hearing opened on cross divorce suits filed by her and Capt. Aaron S. Bell. She testified their marriage had lasted only a month.

Both charge cruel and abusive treatment. They eloped and were married by a justice of the peace Jan. 18, 1945, and later went through a religious ceremony.

Mrs. Bell, the daughter of Atty. and Mrs. Bernard Shalit, testified she had known Bell before he went overseas and corresponded with him during his 28 months in Europe.

After their marriage they lived at the Copley-Plaza and the Beaconfield before they parted a month later, she said. One difficulty, she said, was difference of opinion on religious matters.

The case is continuing.

Bomb Shock Blamed For Hitler's Insanity

HERFORD, Ger., Jan. 25 (AP)—Bomb shock suffered in an attempt on his life July 20, 1944, started Adolf Hitler on the road to mental deterioration, Luftwaffe Gen. Nicolaus von Buelow disclosed today.

What, No Bells on His Toes?

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25 (AP)—Thirteen-year-old Johnny Wills tried a racer bearing—made of the hardest cast steel—on his right index finger. Then he couldn't get it off.

Ten hospital physicians and internes failed in removal efforts. So did the hospital's engineer.

"I broke three few biggest saw blades," said Johnny.

In Boston harbor, Capt. Mitchell Dyer, 45, Heard st., Chelsea, and Engineer, Reginald Stoddard, 35, West Falcon st., East Boston, were rescued today after spending the night clinging to the bow of the water-boat Mary Ellen, which sank in the storm off Nubble channel, near the Long Island shore.

The Mary Ellen was returning from a trip to the outer harbor where she had supplied a freighter with fresh drinking water, when hit by the storm. Unable to beach the craft, Dyer pumped out the forward tanks and gave her enough buoyancy to hold it above the water when the rest of the 55-foot boat went under.

The two men were found clinging to the bow and were taken off by an Army tug. Brought to Rowe's wharf, where an ambulance was waiting, they asked to be taken to their homes.

At the entrance to New Bedford harbor the 58-foot dragger Nashawena went aground on Black Rock and the crew of five men had to be taken off when heavy seas whipped by a 40-mile wind threatened to smash the vessel.

The Coast Guard Cutters Harriet Lane and the Dix had been sent to the aid of the Nashawena, but were unable to navigate in the shallow water where the vessel was grounded.

A picket boat from Woods Hole went in close and took the men off. The ship is lodged between two rocks and waves are breaking over her. It is believed the vessel is doomed.

Meanwhile Navy and Coast Guard planes joined with surface craft in a search off Block Island for the three-man crew of the E-22072 which was wrecked in the storm.

Another vessel out of New Bedford radioed she had picked up part of the hull and the license number of the ship. Two planes from the Coast Guard station at Salem and two from the Naval Air Station at Quonset were sent to the scene in the hope that the three men had taken to the vessel's dory which has not been found.

Captain of the sunken ship is Farish Selig, Pope st., New Bedford, father of three children. Names of the two crew men are not known. The vessel, which is owned by Allen Moriarty, left New Bedford two days ago.

Snow, Cold to Follow Hub's Freak Storm

Light snow tonight and rapidly dropping temperatures tomorrow were forecast by the weatherman today in the wake of a freak northeast storm which whirled out to sea after leaving New England blanketed with from one to 20 inches of snow.

Brisk northwest winds were expected to send the mercury down near zero in Greater Boston by Saturday night. The cold will last through Sunday at least, the weather bureau predicted.

Boston escaped the brunt of the northeaster, getting a mixture of rain, sleet and snow, while central Massachusetts reported 20 inches of snow with traffic hopelessly snarled.

Plows worked throughout the night in Worcester County and State police reported the highways open but very hazardous despite constant sanding.

Firemen took over—but their files couldn't dot the ring.

Finally, a machinist, using a high speed electric drill and grinder, cut it loose.

"I didn't think they'd ever get it off," Johnny related. "I thought they'd have to cut my finger off."

State Shirks Child Welfare Problems, Tobin Charges

Sharply criticizing previous state administrations for neglect of child welfare problems, Gov. Tobin today called for reform of adoption laws and revision of State aid to schools.

Addressing the annual meeting of Massachusetts Child Council, Inc., in the 20th Century Club, the governor declared:

"These problems are as old as some of my living predecessors are today and they have been sidetracked, belittled and selfishly submerged by both legislators and governors since long before the turn of the century."

He attacked existing adoption laws as "not operating for the full protection of our children."

There is "a crying need for complete revision," he said.

The Governor said State aid to communities should be changed to provide funds to raise teachers' salaries where low pay now results in poor standards.

"I hardly think it democratic procedure to deprive a child of educational opportunity because of accident of residence," he declared.

He said it was the State's responsibility to continue the Child Care Centers set up during the war for children of women working in war plants. He declared the Centers are needed to permit needy mothers obliged to seek work.

Protest Bombing Of Famed Ships

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (INS)—The House naval affairs committee interceded today in the Navy's plans for atomic bomb tests as demands arose in Congress that some of the historic battleships be spared from destruction in the half-billion dollar experiment.

Rep. Vinson (D.) of Georgia, committee chairman, summoned V. Adm. Blandy, head of the Navy's division on special weapons, to appear before his group Tuesday and explain the Navy's program.

He said: "We want to know the value of the ships and whether the vessels, especially the battleships and aircraft carriers, have been officially determined to be obsolete."

Lynn Man Dies During Fight

A neighborhood quarrel ended tragically today with Joseph D. Fagella, 46, Oakwood ave., Lynn, dead and Arthur J. Nelson, 37, Clinton st., striking Lynn GE worker and amateur boxing promoter, under arrest on a manslaughter charge.

Nelson, the father of nine children, was booked after police said he told them the quarrel started in front of Fagella's home.

They said Nelson told them Fagella was shoveling snow and, as he and his son approached, blocked their path and began to swear and make threatening gestures with the shovel.

Police said Nelson told them he struck Fagella on the head and hit him again with an uppercut as he was falling. Fagella's head struck the sidewalk. He was dead on arrival at Lynn Hospital.

U.S. Payroll Personnel Up Since War, Byrd Reveals

By KENT HUNTER
Boston Evening American
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—Bureaucracy is playing ring-around-rosy with federal economy and reduction of payrolls, Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D.) of Virginia charged today. Submitting the 22d report on personnel from the joint committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures, Sen. Byrd pointed out that during November, in all departments, agencies and other units of the executive branch except the War and Navy Departments, there was an actual increase of federal payroll names totaling 4168.

The total overall report shows 3215,423 employees of the executive branch as against 3,377,673 at the end of October, but points out that 162,250 of this number represent War and Navy Dept. reductions, representing normal civilian percentages of the armed forces demobilization programs.

Of the other departments and agencies, Sen. Byrd reports:

"The fact remains that the agencies are not reducing personnel despite the cessation of wartime demands.

"It is true that in some instances agencies have been terminated. A few are even now in process of liquidation.

"But what has become of their personnel? To a very great extent they have merely been transferred to other agencies still in operation.

"Much of such reduction as has been announced has been among industrial employees, not in the white-collar personnel. Citing instances:

"In August, when the war ended, the Labor Department had 6346 employees. Today it has 596. Most of these employees reductions, representing normal came from the War Manpower Commission, War Labor Board, and Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion.

"In August the State Department had 11,188 employees. Today it has 18,943 because of transfers from the OWI, Office of Inter-American Affairs and Office of Strategic Services.

"Reconstruction Finance Corp. has doubled its employment since V-J Day."

How Nazis Beat And Tortured 47 Yanks to Death

NUERNBERG, Jan. 25 (AP)—

Fifty Russian officers and political commissars were executed as a special treat for Gestapo Chief-tain Heinrich Himmler at Mauthausen murder camp in September, 1944, and 47 American and Dutch fliers were tortured and stoned to death the same month, a former inmate testified today before the international military tribunal.

Maurice Lampe, a Frenchman, telling a particularly graphic story of the beatings and stonings of the fliers, said the Americans and Dutchmen arrived at the camp Sept. 6.

Barefooted and dressed only in underwear, the fliers were taken before the SS commandant and told they were condemned to death for trying to escape.

When one American officer requested the privilege of dying "like a soldier" he was beaten and then the entire group was led, barefooted, to the bottom of a stone quarry.

"Each man was loaded with stones and had to go to the top of the quarry—up all 186 steps," Lampe related.

"That first trip each man carried 55 to 65 pounds of stone. They were beaten all the way. They had to run back down again.

"On the second trip the loads were heavier. The blows were redoubled and stones were hurled at them. The same process was repeated the whole day.

"That evening the party in which I was working came from the quarry and climbed the steps which were covered with blood. I almost stepped on the jaw of a man.

"Twenty-one bodies were lying there, and 26 others died the following morning."

Bing Crosby Back On Air for 13 Weeks

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (INS)—Bing Crosby and his radio sponsor, the Kraft Co., have compromised their differences in an agreement providing for the return of the crooner to the air Feb. 7 for 13 weeks. After that he is free to leave the program for as long as he likes and sign up with another sponsor.

Kraft is "tearing up" its 10-year original contract with Crosby, which still had five years to run.

JOBS FOR OUR PILOTS

SEVERAL HUNDRED former pilots and aviation specialists, formerly with the armed forces of the United States and veterans of the recent war, have formed a postwar organization with a most worthy purpose.

It is called "The Association of World War II Pilots and Aviation Specialists," and has its headquarters in Long Beach, Cal.

It is not a very big organization as yet, but it is dealing with a problem of national scope and significance and it hopes to arouse national interest in its proposed solution of this problem.

The problem of these hundreds of aviation veterans, and of hundreds of thousands of aviation veterans like them, is very simple—and very serious.

They have returned to civilian life with thorough training in aviation, hoping and expecting to make civilian aviation their life-work—but all but a very few of them have been sorely disappointed.

There just are not enough jobs in civilian aviation to go around.

So we have the strange picture in the United States of these hundreds of thousands of disillusioned and bewildered and embittered American boys, the most thoroughly trained aviation experts and specialists in the world, begging futilely for a chance to do the kind of work they are best fitted to do and that they so earnestly and anxiously want to do.

IT IS to be wondered if the American people fully realize the tremendous INVESTMENT they have in these trained but idle aviation experts and specialists.

It cost the American people up to ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS for the average pilot's education during the war.

And we trained hundreds of thousands of pilots, most of whom are now idle or about to become idle unless they seek and find permanent employment outside the field of aviation.

The education of navigators, radio men, mechanics and the experts and specialists in the many other vocations related to aviation caused the expenditure of vast sums of the people's money.

And we gave this education to millions of men, most of whom are compelled upon discharge from the armed forces to seek employment outside the field of aviation.

The boys themselves don't think this makes good sense.

In forming their new association at Long Beach, hoping to make it nationwide in its ultimate scope, they think they have an answer to the problem that does make good sense.

They say there is one great UNDEVELOPED field in American commercial aviation—that of AIR EXPRESS and AIR FREIGHT—and they would like to have a go at it.

They say the Government has put thousands of aircraft in storage, planes readily suited for the carrying of commercial cargo.

Let US service and fly these ships, say these boys, "and we will find the kind of employment we want and at the same time create one of the greatest peacetime transportation systems the world has ever seen."

PERHAPS THIS would indeed be a very good way and the very best way, as these patriotic and ambitious American boys propose, to make it possible and profitable for them "to further serve our country in peace by salvaging this great investment of the people's money."

It is clearly in the interests of these veterans that they be ENCOURAGED in their new association, and it is surely in the national interest that they be sympathetically and actively supported.

The American people should not forget the great moral and patriotic OBLIGATION they have to these boys.

The American nation cannot afford to WASTE their great talents and skills by not employing them in a field where they can be a great asset to the progress and prosperity of the country.

On the Side By E. V. Durling

Distributed by King Features Syndicate. Must business those from hence remove!

Oh, that's the worst disease of love.

The poor, the foul, the false, love can Admit, but not the busy man, He which hath business, and makes love, doth do, Such wrong as when the married man doth woo.

DONNE.

FOR MY day off I prefer a weekday. Theaters, ball parks, beaches, fishing boats, race tracks and golf links are not crowded then. There's plenty of room on the highways. Besides, when you have a day off during the week, you can sit at the window in the morning enjoying your after-breakfast cigar and watch the people who have to go to work.

LENGTHY LADIES: Long-legged girls like Alexis Smith are the best dancers. On this all dance experts are agreed. However, many long-legged girls, those over five feet 10 inches tall, are rarely happy when dancing, due to their inability to meet tall young men. Dancing with short men is embarrassing to these lengthy ladies because it accentuates their height and makes them look a little ridiculous. Our correspondence indicates we have many of these unhappy tall girls among our readers. All we can suggest to them is to make an effort to join a tall people's club such as the Tip Toppers, Skyscrapers, Stratoliners, etc. There are clubs of this type in nearly every state.

SHATTERED FAITH: Names make news, but at times one hesitates to embarrass people by mentioning names, though absence of the same weakens an item. However, I must ask you to take my word for it, I know a woman whose experience with men has been so unfortunate and her faith in the male sex so shattered that though she is an inveterate and incurable horseplayer, she will bet only on filies and mares.

PAINTED LILY: Have been looking at the photograph of a young female described as "a screen find." It is evident the Hollywood make-up artists went to work on her in a large way. Her eyelashes are so apparently phoney, her face so ironed out, her lipstick so smeared on she looks more like a painted doll or a clothing store dummy than a human being. Perhaps the make-up experts do a lot for actresses in their 30s and 40s but they certainly are not much help to a beautiful girl in her teens or 20s. The public prefers young women who are natural, fresh and wholesome in appearance and does not enthuse much over the "painted lily" types.

QUERIES FROM CLEMENTS:

Q—Name six popular songs in which the telephone figures or send me a stogie. A—Stogie is on way. I can only think of three: "All Alone by the Telephone," "Call Me Up Some Rainy Afternoon" and "Hello, My Baby." Q—A sergeant from Pittsburgh has been trying to tell me that Lillian Russell once starred in a motion picture. How about this? A—Lillian appeared in a film version of her stage success "Wildfire." This was a horse racing story.

PLEASE NOTE: Once more I see a report the people in Washington, D. C., drink four times as much hard liquor as residents of any other major city. A sad state of affairs for our national capital. Perhaps we shouldn't blame our Senators and Congressmen so much for their strange actions. Perhaps the poor fellows are victims of environment.

PASSING BY: Joe Howard, Broadway's hardy perennial. Seventy-eight years old and still going strong. Has been married eight times, which is the Broadway record. His present wife is 34. They have a 14-year-old son. Mary Hay Barthelmess. The now and then blushing bride. Just married musical comedy actor Richard Rober. Mary is the daughter of Mary Hay, musical comedy star, and film star Dick Barthelmess. Her father is a fraternity brother of mine. That makes her my fraternity niece. So it is only right I should take an interest in her. Therefore, I have instructed our Mule and Men Department to give Mary special service in the way of advice in case she has difficulty handling her recently acquired husband.

DIDN'T LIKE IT: The $6,000,000 British film "Caesar and Cleopatra," based on George Bernard Shaw's play and starring Claude Rains and Vivien Leigh, has been unmercifully panned by most London critics.

The tragedy of it is this was the film which was intended to show that British producers could make as good or better films than Hollywood producers.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—Whatever the outcome of the Pearl Harbor case, and it is so darkly confused by politics that clear judgment will be impossible for many years, the unfairness of the court held by Justice Owen Roberts of the Supreme Court on orders of President Roosevelt seems likely established beyond doubt.

This body blamed Admiral Kimmel and General Short after an inquiry in which they were given assurances that they were not on trial.

Denied counsel, forbidden to present witnesses or cross-examine their accusers, denied even a statement of charges against them, they nevertheless were accused of dereliction of duty and, for four years, lived under a cloud and in a state of humiliation.

During this time they were forbidden to speak publicly in their defense and were denied formal trials on specific charges.

Had they broken silence they could have been tried for that and dismissed from the service with forfeiture of their pensions as additional punishment and without any discussion of their guilt or innocence in the Pearl Harbor disaster.

The facts developed by the belated investigations indicate that, if these men were remiss at all, they were much less negligent than some superiors in Washington who nevertheless continued to serve in the war and accumulated rank and honors.

They cause one to suspect, further, that Mr. Roosevelt's investigation was just an artificial device, hurriedly assembled, not to capture the truth 'ere it should vanish in the confusion of war, but to select victims for a sacrifice and distract public attention from the failure of others.

President Roosevelt's directive to the Roberts Commission pointedly excluded himself, Cordell Hull and Frank Knox from the scope of the inquiry by restricting its interest to failures of men in the Army and Navy.

Obviously this case will never be pushed to a conclusion.

If Gen. George Marshall was guilty of neglect, bad judgment or dereliction his great service as chief of staff, his admirable character and patriotism and his further sacrifice and performance in China, when he would have retired to a rest well-earned, will preclude his trial on charges.

ROOSEVELT AND KNOX are gone, and so historians will pass varying judgments on them, influenced and confused by the political bias of the data.

Even Japan will receive the benefit of the proven fact that, in the Atlantic, American warships were shooting at the Germans without a declaration of war, and the revelation that Mr. Roosevelt contemplated the capture of the Azores, by a surprise attack, from Portugal, which never did enter the war.

It appears that the reasons for the abandonment of this plan were not legal or moral, but political, and that the original intention was to strike a peaceful world-neighbor without warning, even as the Japs did at Pearl Harbor.

Already Kimmel and Short have been vindicated by service inquiries. This was a negative way of averting courts-martial which might have absolved them on the facts, but might have established the failure of others.

Good faith appears to have been lacking throughout, politics and spite have been strongly influential in all the proceedings, and the reputation of the higher ranks of the services for scrupulous honor, at whatever sacrifice, has suffered, a loss not only to the services, but to the nation as a whole.

It is not discounting 3000 dead at Pearl Harbor, the loss of a fleet, and the immeasurable further human losses that were suffered in redressing this first blow, to say that the conduct of the President was more grievous to the United States.

For here, by order of the President himself, acting in his own personal interest, two citizens were disgraced without even a pretense of true lawful procedure and in violation of the right of trial which we grant every American.

"More of your letters returned! When you gonna remember you GOTTA put stamps on letters now?"

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25—When Sgt. Eugene List starts his picture making, he'll have four extremely capable actresses with him. Three of them, Andrew Stone told me today, have already been signed for "Bachelors' Daughters." List's first movie, Gail Russell, for instance, has been borrowed from Paramount and, denials notwithstanding, you may expect Gail to marry Guy Madison.

Clare Trevor, than whom there is no better heavily dramatic actress, and Ann Dorak have been signed. The fourth will be announced later. Stone, who will direct and produce, tells me that List will play the piano. It would be just too bad if we didn't have the chance to hear the lad who brought a smile to Stalin's face and applause from President Truman and Churchill.

Gail Russell

I SNEAKED into the projection room and saw a couple of reels of "Gilda" before I was discovered and hustled out. But I didn't need more to be able to pass on to you that Rita Hayworth is so beautiful she's breathtaking and it definitely brings Glenn Ford back as a star. At least, Harry Cohn is making him a star and his first picture will be "The Great Highway" with William Wellman directing. Glenn plays John J. Montgomery, who is said to have made the first controlled flight in a heavier-than-air craft in 1883. He seems to be in the life of the Wright Brothers what Bacon was to Shakespeare and rumors have it he beat the Wrights to the punch in glider flight without motor.

HOLLYWOOD MOVIES have glorified everything from horses and dogs to penguins and caterpillars and I can prove it. But now the lowly mule comes into his own in the George Agnew Chamberlain story, "Scudder Hoo, Scudder Hay," just bought by 20th for Lon McAllister. In case the title throws you, it's a term of command on mules, for in the picture Lon plays a lame farm boy who makes his fortune out of a pair of mules no one can handle. If you remember, Chamberlain also wrote "Home in Indiana," the movie that brought Jeanne Crain, June Haver into notice, and Lon, too.

DIANA BARRYMORE telephoned to say that her permission for the filming of "Good Night, Sweet Prince" was unimportant. Most important of all, she says, is her Aunt Ethel's and Uncle Lionel's permission. "I don't know how they feel about it," Diana said, "but I do know that Dolores Costello, who, as you know, was married to my father, is bitterly opposed to having the story filmed and I doubt whether she would ever give her consent. As the mother of John and Dolores Barrymore, she has a lot to say. I don't know that my permission would mean a thing," she said. "I don't even know that they would have to have it."

LUCILLE BALL is going to be blessed within an inch of her life when she moves over from M-G-M to make "Lesonsara Love" on the Universal lot. "I'm usually taking clothes off on the screen," laughed the tall redhead. "It feels fun to be putting them on." Travis Banton is doing the wardrobe, which calls for about 22 changes. George Brent is her co-star in this comedy about a hot-shot New York designer who wears her own creations. Speaking of George, I hear he's been on a diet to lose a little poundage. He's in good company. Van Johnson has been doing the same thing,

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: The John Steinbecks have decided to settle permanently in New York and to await the coming of his second child in June in the big town. Apparently the colorful Mr. Steinbeck has a number of reasons keeping him in the big town. Mainly because he is working on a musical play, "The Wizard of Maine." He has bought a house in Manhattan, which is being remodeled in readiness for the Steinbeck occupancy in March. He hopes to continue to write original screen stories, but they'll all be done via the long-distance.

WELL, AT LEAST two spots are definitely set for "Life With Father." Roddy McDowell will be borrowed from 20th to play one of the sons, and as we told you, Shirley Temple is being borrowed from David Selznick. This picture is going to be one of Jack Warner's best and there is plenty of excitement on the lot over it. The chances are so strong Mary Pickford will get the mother role that unless something unexpected happens the part is hers. William Powell and Ronald Colman are the top candidates for father.

Boston American, Jan. 25—25

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Capt. Ben Landis, who had a lot to do with the stage production of "Winged Victors," is getting married in February. His bride-to-be is Gloria Felt of Chicago, and Dave Ross will be the best man. Rita Hayworth and Tony Martin doing check-to-check at the Mocambo, with Vic Mature just looking on from a stag table. Speaking of Vic, his former flame, June Haver, has formed a club on the 20th lot composed of the bachelor gals. They call themselves "No Rita Data"; Van Johnson, accompanied by Les Peterson of M-G-M, is off today for the President's Birthday Ball; it's good to hear John Payne telling friends that Gloria de Haven is so improved that she is up and moving around. She was a mighty sick girl following the birth of their baby; the Charles Caris are just back from Washington, where they were the house guests of Adj. Gen. Tom Clark. They were also guests at the newspaper women's party for the President and his family.

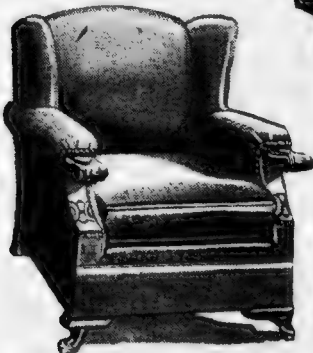

NOW ITS Freddy Martin who is buying himself a string of horses. After Harry James' Devilish Egg romped home to the tune of $129 last week—why not? Nice compliment to Red Hatley being chosen to work with Darryl Zanuck's 14-year-old daughter on her screen test at 20th. No, Darryl is not planning a real movie career; Ray Milland's new Paramount contract really makes him a Mr. Bigger than lot. He's been there 13 years and "California" is his 50th movie; when I was touring with my stage act, Art Farrow was my Pittsburgh Theater host. Now he's out here enjoying the California brand of sunshine I talked up. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—The Weather Man has been nastying it around this town with his switches from rain to snow to cold to blizz.

Dorothy Kilgallen

In fact, some visitors have been complaining. Some say a parlay like that can lead to pneumonia—but we natives think it's all part of Manhattan's charm, the anything-can-happen variety.

Well, stranger, if your purse is a bit flat from the income-tax bite you can still have a bit of fun in this town. It'll cost you no more than your time to pay that long-deferred visit to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. You'll be surprised at how much small talk a few hours in those marble halls will give you for your conversations back home.

And I've got the place for dinner. Go to the Hungarian Village on E. 77th st., between Second and Third aves. There, for $1, you will get a full-course native dinner and a little floor show with a wonderful singing gal named (of all Edna Ferber fiction names) Muncy King. Not fancy, but lots of fun.

SOME THINK IT's a summer lark, but to me it's a winter thrill, too—take one of the ferries across the river to Weehawken, say. Only a few pennies and the little trip is something out of a story book about New York; if you're in the mood, of course. For up and about at 2 a. m. I recommend the Carnival Bar on Eighth ave.

At that hour all the show girls and chorus pretties from the Carnival floor show are in that room awaiting their stage-door Johnnies. And if you want to stay out just a wee bit later, go over to the Capitol Bowling Alley on Seventh ave. In the short morning hours you'll glimpse the prettiest girls in town—the late spot chorines who get their exercise at that hour. And they throw a mighty handsome ball!

From there, stroll down to 51st and Seventh—Hanson's Drug Store. You don't have to buy anything, just look. You'll see press agents and night club owners and maybe you'll get a peek at Winchell. A much cheaper look than at

Instead of departing meekly, they did what suffering humanity the world over has always done in time of distress. They called in a doctor!

WELL, THE IDEA caught on, and the result is that hotel managers are tearing what is left of their hair and cussing the medical profession with every breath they can muster.

This is how it has been working out:

The Harris family is due to be streeted Wednesday morning. On Tuesday night Mr. Harris calls the room clerk and says it will be impossible to vacate on schedule because Mrs. Harris has just been taken down with a mysterious malady.

"The doctor," he adds, "says it will be fatal to move her."

The clerk protests that the Harris must move because the Davises are due in tomorrow—and the Davises have had the room reserved since last August. Mr. Harris says he is sorry but he cannot take any chances on his wife's life, adding:

"The doctor says to me: 'Mr. Harris, your wife is a very sick woman. She positively must NOT be moved under any circumstances.'"

THE MANAGER comes storming up—and there is Mrs. Harris propped up in bed, moaning appropriately. The manager asks what is the matter with her but she only groans and says she is not long for this world. The manager is tempted to ask if she will please hurry up with her dying but he refrains because you do not get to be a hotel manager by asking such questions of the customers—or anyway you don't remain one long if you do.

Instead he works up a look of false sympathy and says maybe things aren't as bad as they seem. At this the lady the Cub Room of the Stork!

IF YOU WANT that so-much-alive feeling in the morning, take a little stroll through Central Park. Bundle up warm and it will be something for the memory book—prettier than any Christmas card you ever saw. And you mustn't miss breakfast at the Automat—a few nickels will do the trick.

Hop that subway down to Fourth ave., and browse in the book shops. A full row of oldies, and you may find a volume that's a real bargain. Then, to kill the afternoon pleasantly and inexpensively, stroll over to University pl. and 11th st. and take a chair in one of the auction rooms. Keep your hands quiet or you'll find you're bid for an old lamp or a horsehair sofa. You'll find it a lot of fun for awfully cheap.

groans horribly—and the husband says she mustn't be worried any more because the doctor has ordered absolute rest and quiet.

I GOT TALKING about this to Mr. Jim Carroll, manager of the Roney Plaza, and he said:

"I would certainly like to know who thought up this doctor gag, because it is driving me nuts. We come up against it nearly every day. I have been forced to look at more groaning women and doctor's certificates than the head of a clinic."

I asked Mr. Carroll what he did in such cases.

"Well," he said, "we offer to get them reservations elsewhere—but if this doesn't work we bring in our own doctor. So far, out of dozens of cases, we have only found one of genuine illness. This woman was really sick."

"What was the matter with her?"

"She had stuffed herself full of stono crabs, beer and ice cream," said Mr. Carroll. "She had a very bad stomach ache!"

THIS IS WHY Sir Thomas Beecham was screaming. He was due to move into the Roney Plaza, but a dame with a doctor's certificate had established squatter's rights in his suite.

Finally, Manager Carroll managed to get her out by finding quarters elsewhere, but the delay had aroused Sir Thomas' ire, which, they tell me, is no unusual condition in a high-class musician. He was very hard to pacify.

At last they got him quieted down with applications of hot tea, but, when night fell he became irked all over again. It seems a swing band was playing in the palm court beneath his window.

He howled that it was disturbing him. The management assured him it would not interfere with his sleep because the swingers knocked off at midnight.

"It isn't my sleep," he yelped. "That isn't why they're disturbing me. I want to practice!"

George Holland Boston After Dark

BASEBALL'S BELOVED CLOWN—the great and generous Al Schacht—will be able to make his honor-guest appearance at the Boston Baseball Writers' annual dinner Feb. 5 only in case the airlines are able to maintain flying schedules that day. . . . He has been committed for a long time to appear and speak at a luncheon in Washington by the Downtown Club, scheduled also for Feb. 5.

AL'S SCHEDULE is so tight, that he must fly away immediately after the Boston affair, because he has been signed to play a leading role in a play called "Second Guesser," by Hal Sherman, which will be in the last stages of rehearsal for a Chicago opening at the Civic Opera House the following Monday.

IT WILL please Mr. Schacht's many friends in Boston (a legion inclusive of every baseball fan in the town) to learn that the Schacht restaurant in East 52nd St. is rated by the epicure as the best steakhouse in the Big City. . . . Customers say that the service is more marvellous, if possible, than the food. They seem to think (in New York) that a miracle is performed when a steak is delivered to a customer within 10 minutes of being ordered, and that's what happens continuously at Schacht's.

WHEN WEATHER conditions are "telling zero," and no planes take off from La Guardia Field, the panic is really on among the small army of transient individuals who each night are forced to search for hotel accommodations. . . . It is a job for a Ranger—for that matter—at any time to find a room in a New York hotel. . . . It becomes almost an impossibility—and even bribes as high as $20 are ineffective—to get a room when, as we mentioned, the outgoing planes fail to outgo.

SPENCER L. SAWYER'S Sheraton Hotel has adopted heroic measures in caring for old customers and friends of the management. . . . The Sheraton has converted its Victory Room to a dormitory, and cots are installed on the nights when the pressure is unbearable. . . . All night movies and the subways do a rush job, and some of the all night cafeterias and restaurants now place an hour's time limit on occupancy of a chair at a table.

SOME of the thwarted strangers without lodgings in Manhattan work their restaurant-visit in relays. . . . After paying on a check, they leave the restaurant and return for another cup of coffee or glass of milk. . . . This entitles them (if there is still a vacant chair) to another hour's respite from the elements. . . . One must actually go through the effort of trying to find accommodations to realize the extent of this postwar boom.

SOME RETAIL STORES openly are defying the short-handed OPA enforcement department, by the way. . . . Stores with a supply of cheap stockings are the most brazen offenders. . . . Hose which are ceiling-priced at 98 cents get $1.95. . . . And the girls say you take them or leave them and protest—later—if you wish. . . . The OPA schedule of violations is so crowded that the conscienceless store-keepers act on the theory that if or when they are "caught up with" it will be too late for the Law to do much about it.

COMES AN ANSWER to our query of the other day as to the probable basis of the 1944 rumor which spread over the city that President Roosevelt was a patient at a Parker Hill hospital.

IT WAS AT that time that the late President was consulting each day with Dr. Frank Lahey, who is chief of staff of a Boston hospital—the one in which the rumor placed the President. . . . Dr. Lahey's job was to recruit physicians and surgeons for the armed forces, and FDR was concerned greatly about this exacting chore.

DR. LAHEY was summoned to the White House almost daily for a period of two weeks. . . . Then he vanished from the Washington scene. . . . FDR went south to Warm Springs, and without publicity, at the same time. . . . So the rumor got under way in Washington that the President was being operated on in the Boston hospital where Dr. Lahey serves as chief. . . . (It's a reasonable explanation, at any rate.) Where Dr. Lahey went will be divulged eventually. . . . The fact is that he and a few aides traveled all over the country recruiting the doctors who were needed so direly.

TOWN LINE, N. Y., Jan. 25

(AP)—The residents of Town Line voted 90 to 23 to return to the Union.

The votes were collected by Henry Urshel, owner of the blacksmith shop where 85 years ago the tiny community decided to secede.

The ballots were counted by the movies' Cesar Romero and Martha Stewart, here for the premiere of a motion picture stressing the theme of unity between North and South.

Neighbor Saves Scalded Baby

The quick action of George Finn of Pelham st., South End, probably saved the life of 4-month-old Charlotte Johannsen early today when escaping steam from a defective radiator scalded the infant as it rested on a couch.

Finn was attracted by the hiss of steam from the Johannsen apartment and raced upstairs. Failing to gain entrance, he called police, who forced the door and rescued the baby. The heat had removed whole sections of paint from the walls.

The baby, burned about the head, was taken to City Hospital, where it was said she would recover. The mother, Mary Johannsen, was notified.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 25 (AP)—Donald R. Williams' little dog followed him to school one day—much to the distress of the University of Utah geology department.

Nippie, the pup, was discovered slumbering in the geology building alongside a well-chewed bone. It was this restaurant's highly prized, ancient wine-scoliated bone.

The Open House policy proved an Eye opener!
 ... To Those Who Saw Our New Lowered Prices

THEY CAME ... scores of them ... some skeptical, some knowing that Community was built on Value, Quality and Service ... realizing that Community had consistently reduced the prices of eyeglasses. They were convinced we had made even Further Reductions.

THEY SAW ... a Complete Display of modernly styled High-Quality eyeglasses in every office ... clearly marked with the new price and the old price. Many wanted to make immediate purchase, but Monday was a day for inspection only. Hundreds have already returned to buy, many brought friends along.

THEY CONCURRED ... never in all Community's history have prices been SO LOW. Never had they received Greater Eyeglass Values at Community.

The New City Family

City Censor Samuel Nesson, a member of the real estate family so well known and liked, has been in the real estate business for 20 years. He lives in Commonwealth ave., Brighton, with his wife, the former Marjorie Rothwell, daughter of the late Dr. Charles Rothwell of South Boston, and their three children, Carol, 13; Charles, 7, and Ivy, 4.

They have a summer home at Wessagusset.

A graduate of Boston University in 1922, Nesson says he is a very conservative person and hopes to carry out his tasks in a business-like yet artistic manner.

It is the censor's duty to view all stage shows, motion pictures and week-day vaudeville performances, and, should he decide the entertainment is at odds with decency, make a report to a board of three, comprising the mayor, the police commissioner and a member of the art commission.

Britain to Finance Greece, Cancel Debt

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Britain will loan Greece $400,000,000 without interest to help stabilize skyrocketing Greek currency and assist in restoring production. Foreign Secretary Bevin announced today.

The British also will cancel Greece's $180,000,000 war debt to Britain and will sell at cost $25,000,000 worth of clothing and agricultural implements.

A BREAK FOR YOU!

ARMY EXTENDS TIME TO GET YOUR OLD GRADE BACK

Experience during recent months has shown that most men discharged from the wartime Army desire more than 20 days to look around again in civilian life before deciding what they will do. Consequently the War Department has adopted a new regulation extending the period during which you can enlist in the Regular Army and retain the grade you held when discharged.

During the period February 1 through June 30, 1946, you can rejoin the Army within 90 days after honorable discharge and be enlisted in the grade you held when discharged.

This applies to all men physically and mentally qualified, who are now in the Army and those who have been discharged less than 90 days.

There's a good job waiting for you in the new peacetime Regular Army.

It's a steady job, with no uncertainty, no lay-offs. You get good pay and most of it is clear savings. You get family allowances for dependents. And under normal conditions you get a 30-day paid vacation every year.

You have excellent technical training in one or more of 200 skills and trades. And you have every opportunity for advancement to higher grades, with added pay.

A 3-year enlistment enables you to choose the overseas theater to which you wish to go, and also your branch of service, in the Air, Ground or Service Forces.

Most important of all, you can build financial security. The time you have already spent in the Armed Forces counts toward retirement at half pay for life after 20 years' service, and on up to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service.

Take advantage of the new War Department ruling. If you were discharged less than 90 days ago, get full information about this opportunity from your nearest U. S. Army Recruiting Office today! There's no obligation to you in finding out what the Regular Army offers.

Happy Shock

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 25 (AP)—A housewife who hadn't seen butter in weeks was desperately hunting a substitute.

She asked a little neighborhood store for her favorite margarine.

"Haven't any."

She named another brand,

and another. "No—no—no."

"I don't know what I'm going to do," she said sadly.

"Well," replied the grocer, "I could let you have half a pound of butter."

They almost had to carry her home.

She Seeks Nice Boy

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: What could I do if I want very much to meet a nice young boy? Someone who has a very nice personality and is well liked by all.

I am an early teen-ager. AN UNHAPPY WRITER You don't tell me, teen-ager, whether this is one particular boy you're anxious to meet, or whether you're just a little lonely and would like to make the acquaintance of almost any nice boy.

If he's one particular boy, haven't you some friend who knows him and might introduce you? If he goes to your school, can't you manage to be in the cafeteria line when he goes for his lunch, or join the school interests club he belongs to, or get someone to introduce you at school dance?

Of course, if it's the other problem, and you just want to meet a nice boy, there are still your school clubs and your community groups where boys and girls meet and play together.

Teen-Ager, just have fun with a lot of them for awhile.

Beauty and Fashion Editor

IF THE LAST generation knew what the present generation takes serious cognizance of . . . we'd all have strong, clear eyes . . . good muscles and nerves . . . healthy scalp and hair . . . lovely complexions and lovely teeth . . . and good straight bones.

That's because in this day and age . . . vitamins have been properly evaluated and their contribution to sturdy physical fitness carefully noted and catalogued. That's why a properly balanced daily intake of food must have its important share of vitamin foods . . . that rousing relief from hidden hunger.

That's why the baby gets his daily dose of fish oil and orange juice and milk . . . and as he gets older . . . the other brawn and brain developing and producing foods which carry him into upstanding adolescence and Herculean manhood. Vitamins are the constituents of many foods that strengthen the body tissues and prevent contraction of organic disease.

They are nutritive substances vitally necessary to health. Doctors still don't know all there is to be known about vitamins . . . but they do know what dreadful results are produced by the lack of them in the body. And the best way to get this ready-made health is by eating the foods in which they are known to abound plentifully. Of course, it's just as wrong to over-vitaminize the system as it is to under-vitaminize the body.

But generally speaking . . . and because we must be a nation of alert men and women with healthy bodies housing healthy minds . . . we should eat these foods every day . . . milk and milk products . . . oranges, tomatoes, grapefruit or raw cabbage or salad greens (at least one of them) . . . one helping (or more if you're not dieting) of green or yellow vegetables, some raw, some cooked . . . other vegetables and fruits in season . . . bread and cereal . . . meats, poultry or fish, or nuts occasionally . . . at least 3 or 4 eggs a week, cooked any way you choose or in "prepared" dishes . . . and butter.

Whether you're dieting or not . . . but for normal good health . . . here are the Vitamins.

Vitamin A . . . anti-infective . . . especially for strong, clear eyes . . . found generously in green, leafy vegetables, especially escarole, also yellow foods such as carrots, corn, egg yolks and in liver. It's a body-building resistant against disease.

Vitamin B-1 . . . for good muscles, body-building . . . to overcome that tired feeling, ragged nerves and muscular aches and pains . . . Meats, especially pork, whole grain or restored cereals, enriched bread and yeast, bananas.

Vitamin B-2 . . . helps keep your skin, eyes and hair healthy. Drink milk, eat plenty of meat, peas, lima beans, eggs and green leafy vegetables.

Vitamin C . . . The curative vitamin . . . for lovely complexion and lovely teeth . . . which builds good, strong teeth and gums and pep up the vitality. Good sources of it are in raw fruits and vegetables, especially oranges and tomatoes.

Vitamin D . . . for good straight bones . . . to be found in cod and halibut liver oil, milk, eggs and sunshine.

Vitamin E . . . the reproduction vitamin which abounds in lettuce, water-cress, egg-yolk, whole cereals and vegetable oil.

Vitamin G . . . for growth . . . so eat lean meat, cereals, yeast, bananas and green leafy vegetables.

All life is a see-saw and it is up to us to balance that life. Two of the most important adjustments we must make in balancing life's precarious ups and downs are . . . first, our living habits, and secondly, our food intake.

Life takes on a new sweetness when we replace faulty food habits with a sound, nutritional program.

In tomorrow's Boston Evening American, we list again, menus for two days, the 20th and 21st, and answer more inquiries.

Here's Just the Perfume For Valentine's Day Gift

FEBRUARY 14th is the date on which the birds begin to mate . . . that's Valentine's Day . . . at least the way the history books have it . . . with no less an authority than Chaucer sagely discussing same as far back as 1400.

Whatever the rhyme . . . or the reason . . . Valentine's Day is a sentimental date on which to state your fondness for your favorite people.

There's one perfumer who believes that romance is the heart-beat of a fine perfume . . . and he has one special scent that fits Valentine's Day to a V. It's his fresh, woody, love-in-bloom fragrance that plays cupid . . . without coaxing . . . and poses the question "Would you be my Valentine?" to the happy recipient . . . so charmingly that the lady in the case would have to have a heart of stone not to relent . . . and love the gift!

And, since a Valentine gift is not limited to gals alone . . . there's a masculine version of this same scent . . . which certainly sets the stage for two hearts to beat as one . . . to flutter simultaneously toward the same fragrance . . . a cute idea for cute people.

For the name of this Her and Him scent for Valentine's Day, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, or write Ruth Mugglebee, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

RICE IS ONE of the most useful foods we have on our pantry shelves. We use it to thicken soup, to turn into puddings, as an accompaniment for meat, fish, vegetables, etc. We've taken it for granted, more or less, when it has been plentiful and easy to get—a food we could take or leave at will. But to many peoples it is a major food item.

There is a shortage of rice the world over at the present time. And if we don't have as much as we had this time last year, it simply means that much of the supply is being sent to the brave people of the Philippines and China who now find themselves in urgent need of it.

So when we use rice let's use it to the very best advantage. It combines well with all food flavors and is an excellent means of stretching scarce foods or preparing tasty dishes without the use of meat. As an example, take the following recipe for scrambled eggs and rice served with a creamy cheese sauce. A half cup of cold chicken, or any other meat you may have, may be used also with the egg.

SCRAMBLED EGGS WITH RICE AND CHEESE SAUCE

- 1 cup rice
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1/2 tsp. salt
 - 3 tbsp. butter or margarine
 - 6 eggs
 - 1 tsp. flour
 - 4 tbsp. grated cheese
- Wash the rice thoroughly. Cook it in boiling salted water until done. Drain. While it is cooking prepare the cheese sauce. Melt two tablespoons of the fat in a pan, add the flour and salt and stir until smooth. Add the milk gradually, stirring continually. When thickened, add the cheese, scramble the eggs in the remaining tablespoon of fat. Arrange the rice on a hot platter, the scrambled eggs around it and pour cheese sauce over the rice.

A cup of rice combined with a few vegetables makes an excellent casserole dish which might easily be the mainstay of the evening meal. We suggest the following menu:

MENU

- Rice and Vegetable Casserole
- Cucumber Pickles
- Stewed or Canned Fruit
- Cup Cakes

Milk Tea

VEGETABLES EN CASSEROLE

- 1 cup rice
 - 1 small turnip, cubed
 - 1 cup canned peas
 - 1 cup canned tomatoes
 - 1 onion, sliced
 - 4 medium-sized potatoes, thinly sliced
 - 1 tsp. salt
 - 1/2 tsp. pepper
 - 1/2 tsp. allspice
 - 4 cups brown stock
- Wash the rice thoroughly. Put ingredients in casserole, in alternate layers except stock, pour on stock, cover, and cook until rice is tender, in slow oven. Makes 8 servings.

SHRIMP SAMOSET

- 1 No. 1 can shrimp
- 2 cups boiled rice
- 3 tbsp. butter or margarine
- 4 tbsp. flour
- 2 cups milk

SOFT tailoring and the pairing of sheer wool with wool tweed are typical Hansen Bang identifications for this spring costume. The flame red tweed jacket . . . with curved shoulders . . . is faced with the butterscotch wool . . . stunning and startling color combination . . . from which the bow-necked dress is fashioned. You may not be able to see it . . . but intricate seaming is a smart detail of both the dress and jacket . . . R. M.

1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. celery salt
1/2 tsp. paprika
4 raw eggs
Spread rice in shallow buttered baking dish. Melt butter, add flour and when mixed pour in milk, salt, celery salt, paprika. Cook until a creamy sauce forms. Stir constantly. Add shrimp. Pour over rice. Carefully drop eggs on top. Bake 10 minutes in a moderate oven. Garnish with parsley and serve in dish used in baking.

'Leave Her to Heaven' Premiere on Met Screen

By PEGGY DOYLE

Ben Ames Williams' never convincing portrait of a lethal lovely, brought to the screen by 20th Century-Fox and Gene Tierney, might never have left the book-covers.

Now unreeling its Technicolorful grandeur—Maine was never like this!—on the Metropolitan screen, "Leave Her to Heaven" is a textbook exhibit on how not to transfer book to celluloid. Against some of the most beautiful country that ever missed Burton Holmes' seeing-eye cameras, Miss Tierney putatively postures as the monstrously evil Ellen.

She is extravagantly alluring in an oh-and-ah-some touseau of fetching horsehoists, hostess pyjamas, et cetera. As the passionately possessive wife who arranges the drowning of her husband's adored, younger brother, the death of her unborn child and the trial on a murder charge of her innocent, adopted sister, she is as static as a magazine cover-girl.

This water-off-a-duck's-back performance keys the entire production. For all its shocking recital of guilt, "Leave Her to Heaven" is no more suspenseful than one of the venerable Mr. Holmes' travelogues. Nor does Cornel Wilde's sinned-against husband react any more feelingly than one of the casual natives caught by the world traveler-lecturer's tireless lensmen.

Only Vincent Price, as Ellen's jilted fiancé and the district attorney, to whom she writes a letter naming her adopted sister as her killer before she takes arsenic, injects any spirit into this dull progression of violent events. He plays his courtroom scene up to the hilt with all the organ-stops to mess up the metaphors.

Darryl Hickman's young infantile paralysis sufferer, Mary Phillips' mother of a monster, Jeanne Crain's sweet, troubled sister and Gene Lockhart's family doctor, are all played matter-of-factly and with never a lift.

Plan Shakespearean Festival in April

"Romeo and Juliet," "Macbeth" and "Twelfth Night" are to be included in the second annual two-week Shakespearean Festival which the Tributary Theater is sponsoring at New England Mutual Hall, beginning April 23.

Sin Vividly Portrayed in Film

"Scarlet Street," which had difficulty with the New York censors, has presumably been altered to the satisfaction of the local authorities, for it opened as scheduled at the RKO-Boston yesterday.

As it stands it is a good film, well acted and directed, but by no means a pleasant piece of entertainment. Why it should be banned by censors is hard to see, for if ever a motion picture pointed a moral this one does.

We are so used to seeing sin so attractively presented on the screen that it is somehow shocking to see evil portrayed in all its ugliness, and stern, old-testament retribution exacted of the sinners.

Joan Bennett gives a most intelligent performance in the role of a cruel and wanton woman. Edward G. Robinson is equally good as the man whose life she ruins, and Dan Duryea has drawn another of those vicious characters with which he is apparently typed for life.

Kitty Kallen, a black-and-white eyeshaw with her midnight hair in striking contrast to her pale satin gown, is the hit of the current stage show. When she sings the medley of numbers she popularized as featured vocalist with bandsman Jimmy Dorsey and Harry James she glides away with the show.

Appearing as frail as Frankie, Billy Usher sang "Symphony" and "I'm in the Mood for Love" to the customers' taste. Bud Sweeney is the comedian this week.

Harvard Faces the GI Education Perplexity

By AUSTEN LAKE

THE COLLEGES OF THE NATION are on a hot spot. Harvard, B. C., M. I. T., Tufts and B. U. are no exceptions. Result is that veterans in quest of postwar education, insured by the GI Bill of Rights, feel they are getting a brutal tossing around. A large proportion of vets are unable to register. Many others, getting nowhere, are quitting in disgust.

Austen Lake

The colleges do the best they can. Take Harvard, where veterans' applications pour in at the rate of 1000 a week and where the ratio of acceptances is 1-to-15 or even less. This is what happens to the comparative few selected for the college S-V (Social Veteran's) aptitude test.

The ex-soldier sits down to an examination in three one-hour phases. His first hour is a quiz on words, matching synonyms from a list of such tongue-twisters as "levigate" with "triturate" or "morbific" with "deleterious." Such things! The second phase is mathematics, a rugged test in algebra, trig and geometry with a dash of calculus. The third is called "reading comprehension" with the candidate scanning a complicated text and then being questioned on how much he understands.

Harvard makes the examination intentionally stiff. It admits that "perhaps less than half of our high school graduates could pass it." It wants to screen out the most promising scholars, who are selected on a blend of previous school and service records, plus character and personality—in other words an "aristocracy of brains." Many are called but few are chosen!

The Big GI "Joke"

ONE VETERAN WHO COMES from Alabama, tells me: "I was an honor student in high school before the war. But I never heard more than a few words listed in that test. I could do a little of the math and I answered the reading test, though it was very ambiguous. I know I didn't pass. What now?"

A Worcester ex-Infantry first sergeant said: "I graduated from Worcester Academy and was a pretty good student. But that test stopped me cold." Another, from Columbus, O., said: "It cost me money to come here and hang around. Now I have to go home and hang around some more. I've tried six colleges and no dice. So I'll with it. If I can find a job I'll go to work. This GI education thing's a joke."

Harvard and its cousin colleges admit all that! They cannot absorb the deluge of veterans who shop around from one institution to another. So perforce, the colleges pick the best scholars and the rest don't land.

Thus they come to this writer's office, disconsolate, discouraged and bitter. They say the college professors treat them with politeness and sympathy, give them personal advice and then run them through an examination mill that is so double-edged that the only standard of "flunk" or "pass" is the whim of the examiner. They feel they are unwelcome victims of hypocrisy and blame the colleges, which actually are as confused and flabbergasted as themselves.

The major share of GIs who want to go to college are men and boys home from two, three and four years of war where their only scholarship was in the stream of jungle, foxholes or the German hedgerows, or the battle-decks and narrow grooves of the SOS. What schooling they had is bleached to a misty memory. The only literature they read were dog-eared monthly old journals. The only language they heard was monosyllabic soldier argot. They have been through a long, mental vacuity which robbed them of individualism, volition and submerged them into the vast anonymity of war with its mass behavior.

What's the Answer?

THEN SUCH MEN ARE asked to define such words as "didactic" and explain in plain, Saxon English a passage from "Spencer's first principles" or work from a table of logarithms. So, except for the gifted few or the short-term soldier, they don't get into college and decide they are being bounced around. And, being mostly young and without any trade skills, they find it hard to get a job because (1) most closed shop unions, jealous of available employment, won't certify them as members or (2) national production is stagnated by strikes.

So they apply for the $20-a-week unemployment dole and gnaw their cuffs with frustration, while behind them come daily thousands of other discharged servicemen to go through the process. They are not united yet! and they have nobody to turn to. They feel let down and they ARE let down.

The colleges, to use that favorite figure of newspaper speech, are in a quandary. They are faced with the higher educational needs of a nation without facilities to absorb the estimated 750,000 veterans who will want to be registered by next September. And they say less than half of the current crop of high school graduates can be accepted.

So the colleges face a crisis in which the choice is (1) to raise their admission standard to stratospheric heights and select only mental supermen or (2) open wide the gates, first-come-first-served and turn out inferior graduates like strings of little pig sausages. Which?

The answer, if answer there be, is for each state to develop or create junior colleges by expanding post graduate courses in state normal and high schools where the veteran can get the equal of a college freshman or sophomore course. By which time the veteran may decide (1) that he does not want or require further scholarship, or (2) he can move into the college vacancies of those who will inevitably drop out. Right now it's an unhappy mess!

Amateur Boxing Bouts at Quincy

The Varsity Club of Quincy, newest amateur boxing center in that section, holding star boxing shows every Saturday night, has added a 135 novice class to the other weights, which run from 118 lbs. to heavyweights. Any boxer desirous of joining any of the classes should get in touch with Achille Trocci, secretary, at the club house, 2 Washington st., Quincy, without delay.

Brilliant Cast Ready For Silver Skates Derby

Miss Erna Anderson, blonde and glamorous ice skating star who'll be featuring the Silver Skates Derby at the Boston Garden Sunday afternoon, just took one look at the entertainment "roster" to realize that she'd have to be at her best to maintain her reputation as the outstanding performer in this ice carnival.

She'll be the object of affection for the capacity audience as well as the 438 competitors who'll be swinging into line for Silver Skates' prizes.

And she's taking her task quite seriously. Miss Anderson arrived in Boston almost a week in advance of the show, hoping she could get in a few trial spins on the local ice. She wanted to adjust her timing to Karl Rohde's music. And, she wanted to get the feel of the sideboards so she could be perfectly free in her dancing on skates. Her supreme efforts should install her with the fans as one of the greatest and most graceful seen here in years.

Miss Anderson will have plenty of competition for the fans' approval.

There'll be a newcomer to Derby luster in Lillian Tribby, Washington, D. C. brunette, who has also been practicing her twists and turns here. Miss Tribby, on no less authority than Maribel
